Christina and Charlie,

These two ECOs are both designed to provide replacements to end-of-life components on the central scanners used with specific ES&S systems. As outlined below, I recommend approval of both ECOs.

ECO-1177 is a modification to the EVS 6300 system that provides a replacement printer for the DS450 central scanner, as the existing printer that is used with that device is going end-of-life. I agree with Brian that this modification is de minimis and does not adversely impact the performance or security of the system. I recommend approval of ECO-1177.

ECO-1178 is a modification to the EVS 6200 and 6300 systems that provides a replacement printer for the DS950 central scanner. The existing printer for that device is also going end-of-life, so this ECO provides a replacement for that component. I agree with Brian that this modification is also de minimis and does not adversely impact the performance or security of the system. I also recommend approval of ECO-1178.

Thanks,

Chuck Pinney

Hi Charlie,

I approve of ECOs 1177 and 1178. The changes are de minimis and do not negatively affect the voting system's suitability for use in Texas.

Thanks,
Brian
